

INSPIRING THE PROJECT PROFESSION AND ENHANCING PROJECT MANAGEMENT SKILLS

Project and Programme Management

JULY 2022

Are you ready for a changing future?

All organisations are experiencing change and this pace is not slowing down. Implementing change requires Project Management. Here's some examples of projects that you might have worked on:

- Digital transformation
- Moving to hybrid working
- Changing an organisation's policy

PERHAPS YOU RECOGNISE THESE PROJECT MANAGEMENT CHALLENGES...

$1 million is wasted every 20 seconds on unsuccessful projects, and 70% of all projects do not achieve their objectives worldwide because organisations fail to manage change. Effective Project Management is therefore needed in order to achieve better business results.

Project Management is the only way to deliver effective change.

According to the Association for Project Management and PwC Golden Thread report, Project Management contributes £156.5BN to the UK economy every year.

The Project Management Institute Talent Gap report that 25 million new project professionals are needed by 2030. To close this talent gap, 2.3 million project managers will be needed every year.

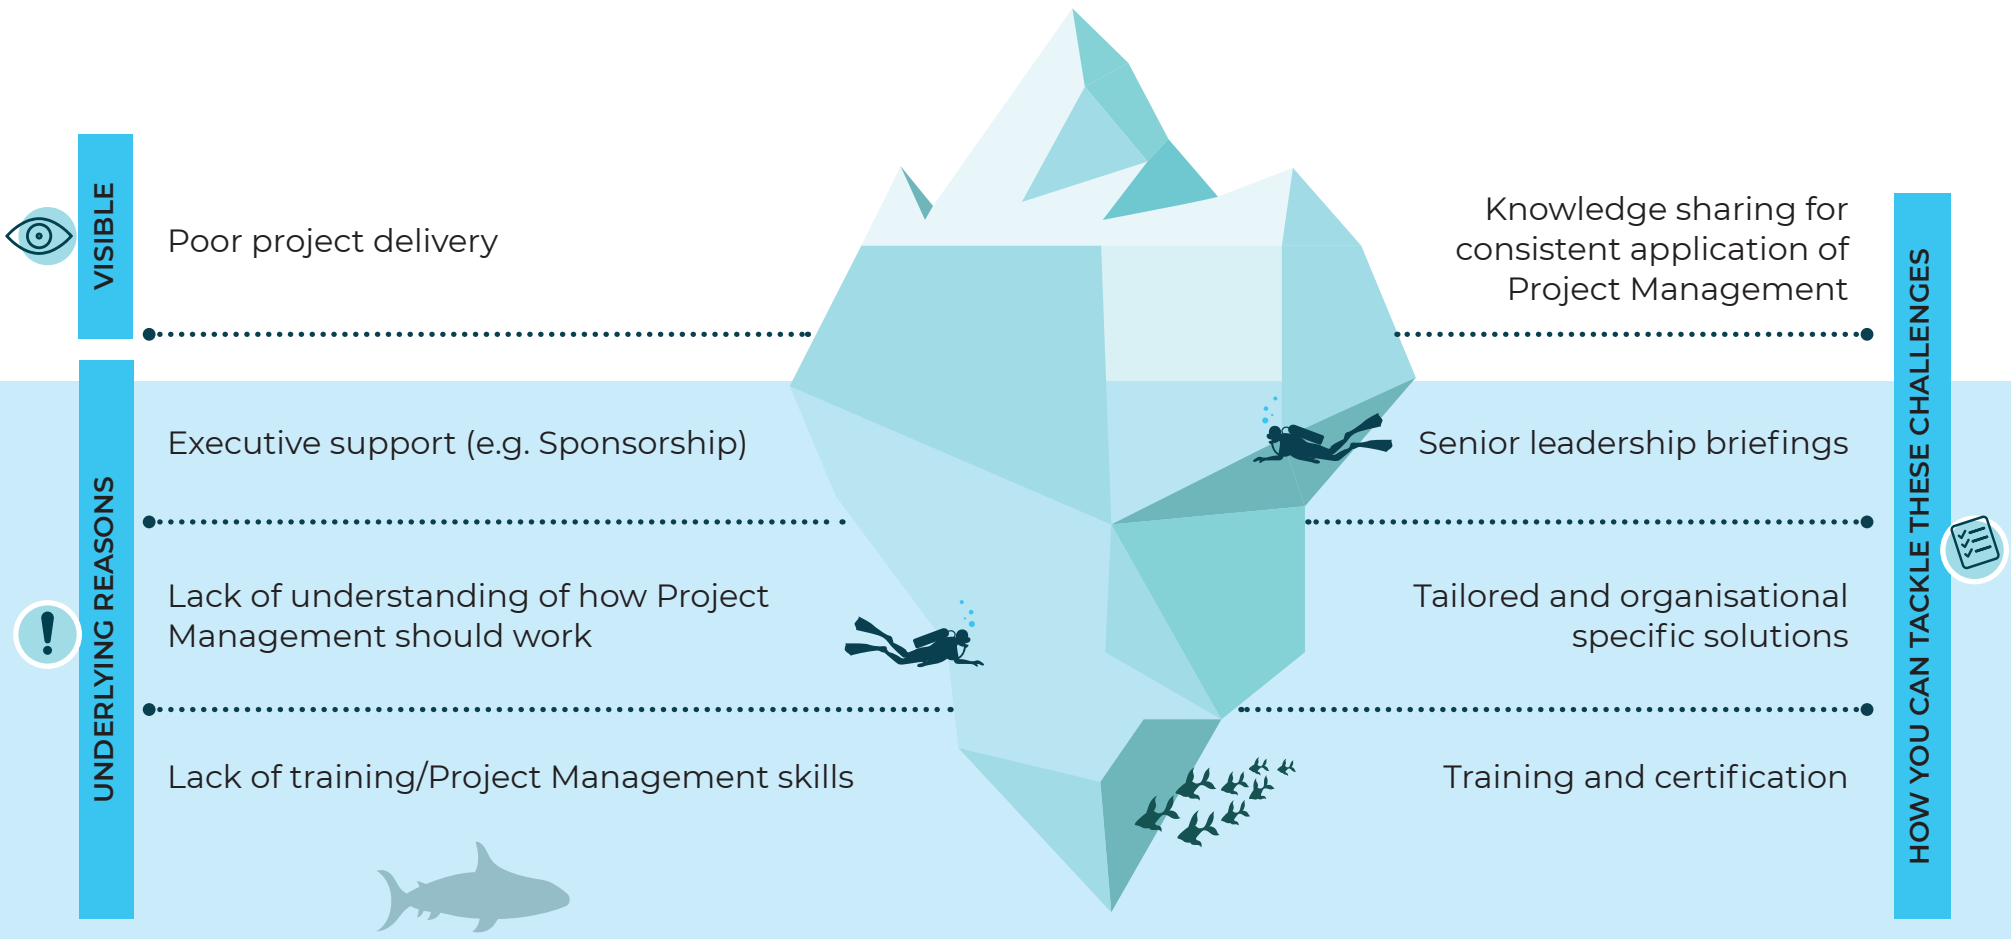

Our Project Management solutions help you close this talent gap and develop project professionals to lead your change.

We are not just a training organisation.

We are committed to furthering the Project Management profession.

Poor project delivery is just the 'tip of the iceberg'.

Case Study: See how we helped QinetiQ

The client: QinetiQ's aim is to provide a world-class defence and security service – wherever in the world. The UK, US and Australia are QinetiQ's home markets, but it is already a trusted supplier to more than 40 countries and is continuing to deepen and extend its international presence.

The challenge: QinetiQ's Project Management methodologies varied across the operating divisions, so they decided to initiate a programme to move to a single methodology which reflected the highest standards in order to improve the consistency, structure and professionalism of project execution.

QA's Solution: QA developed a 14-week intensive programme which combined instructor-led sessions with self-guided study and work-based activities. It was structured so that the strands of learning complemented one another on the path to APM PMQ certification.

The outcome:

97% agreed the training had an impact on their overall understanding of QinetiQ's drive to improve the Project Management function's overall capability

88% acknowledged the training had an impact on their technical Project Management capability

88% stated the training had increased their confidence to perform as a Project Manager

The training has built the confidence of our project managers, as they recognise that what they are doing is now aligned to best practice.

A recent survey showed that individuals have a better understanding of the QinetiQ Project Management journey and recognise the company's investment in them.
